

The missing pages

April 17 1978

On the day of New years eve, a guy called Tim that only wore black and white and worked at a office known as the printer man, He was so busy that he couldn't celebrate new year with his family, but he couldn't stop working, he wondered if someone was controlling him. In a day he had printed 267 pages, while he was printing his boss came to say "Hi"

Until one day a new person started printing called Alex, he wore the same clothes as Tim but had Brown hair.

Then Tim had cut his finger and Alex asked "Are you Ok", Tim said "yes get me a plaster please" . He ran fast and said "here" and Tim said thank you. Alex was doing some photocopy, they were working so hard that, suddenly .... the printer was on fire. Tim called "111 help fire quickly hurry please". Then a few minutes later the came. Then the boss said " YOU CAN GO HOME NOW TIM".

Then Tim took off home as fast as he could. When he got home he was so sad because he doesn't have any work to do.

A few weeks has past he was poor.

His neighbor gave him $20 for food.

He ran straight to the mall and bought a mini printer because it was on sale and because he remembered that it was his old bosses birthday. Then the next day he went to his old work. He marched to his boss and begged for his job back. He gave the mini printer to his boss. Then suddenly Tim dropped down on his hands and knees begging for mercy to get his job back. Because he thought that Tim was thoughtful of him since it was his birthday and gave his printing job back. The next day Tim went to work really early the sun was still rising. Tim was so happy to have his job back and went to the printer room straight away.
