

The office

One special day there was a man called Calob he was feeling happy that day.

He saw a old book under the desk about a secret password.

Then he copied it on a piece of paper.

Then after reading the secret password he searched for secret golden printer in a secret cave.

He ripped of the map from the book and headed of. He drove for nearly six hours until he came to the destination of the golden printer.

He soon found the cave where the golden printer hid.

Finally in his whole in tire life he would get to print his story out of gold. He took his story out of his pocket and went crazy with the printed way too much even more than one billion copies. Suddenly the alarm went off because he printed way to much.

He got angry and smashed the printer with a huge hammer.

And he drove away, of to home.

At home, he ripped the map apart.

He got mad at the printer so he drove back to the cave.

As soon as he went to the Cave he saw the printer again when he touched the printer it started to print the cave door was shout he could not get out the printer printed 600000 copies of paper.

He could not breath so he got suffocated but there was only 1 way out he ran and jumped out of the window then he never entered the CAVE again.
